Poisoned Children Will Both Die

Given Bichloride of Mercury Poison by Mother, all Efforts to Save Them Seem Futile

Chicago, Oct. 11—(United Press)—Death was nearer to the two Luikhart children of Detroit today. Shirley and Edna are being treated here for poisoning with bichloride of mercury, administered by the mother. Science is waging a losing fight in an effort to save life. Dr. Thomas Carter, the children's physician, declared death is just around the corner for both.

The progress of mercury poisoning cannot be stayed. It will follow its course as inevitable as the rising of the sun.

Edna, the younger sister was slightly improved today but the doctor declared the poison had too firm a hold on the child's body and it could not be shaken off. At the hospital the father clung to his two children believing Dr. Carter would save them. The doctors says he has told him there is no hope. In hope of relieving the mental torture of the mother, the husband wired to Detroit that she be permitted to come to Chicago. The sheriff said he would not take any responsibility for her leaving the jail.

The mother, now in the Pontiac county, Michigan, jail, confessed, according to Mr. Luikhart ant officers, that she administered the poison "as a result of a flash from hell."

"I am partly to blame," Mr. Luikhart said. "Terrible as her act is, I forgive her, because I know she was insane when she poisoned her babies."

"Hazel confessed to me she had given the children poison five days after she had committed the crime. She had told our family doctor the next day and he had done everything possible, but did not tell me. Finally she was arrested and I learned the truth."

"She told me she had not thought of poisoning the children until she had seen a motion picture which suggested the idea. First she gave them tablets which they threw up. Then she put the poison into capsules."

Mr. Luikhart said his wife was enamored of a gay life, the stage and applause, while he merely was a modest, homeloving man without large earnings. He refers to the mother's action as the result of a disordered mind.

Long Shoreman Refuse to Unload Transports

New York, Oct. 11—Striking longshoremen refused to comply with the war department's request that six army transports now here be unloaded. The refusal was made at a conference of representatives of the longshoremen and the United States Shipping Board. The workers said they fear that if the request was complied with the commercial companies would take advantage of the situation. They suggested the soldiers be employed in unloading the transports.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 11—"We are neutral in this strike," Mayor Babcock of Pittsburgh told the senate investigating committee today. ### Foreigners Must be Americanized

Senate Committee Investigating the Steel Strike Amazed at Un-American Conditions

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Pittsburg, Oct. 11—"Foreigners must be Americanized". This was the first conclusion announced by Senator Kenyon as a result of the steel strike investigation now under way in the Pittsburg district. Efforts to pass laws which enable foreigners to become Americanized will be started as soon as the committee returns to Washington, Chairman Kenyon said today.

The senators were astounded at the isolation of foreigners in the steel district. They visited districts where the English language is scarcely understood. Interpreters had to be obtained in many places before they could converse with them. Throughout the steel mills danger signs were printed in five different languages. Proclamations were printed in various tongues.

"We have got to make Americans of these people", Senator Kenyon declared today. "It is the one thing we can all rally around. We have got to surround these men with good influence and teach them our ideals and language. It is the one hope. I have been after ammunition on this trip and I have certainly got it."

President Must Stay in Bed

For an Extended Period the Doctors Announced—Improvement Continues

(By United Press)
Washington, Oct. 11—President Wilson will be forced to remain in bed for an "extended period," it was announced at the White House this afternoon.

Dr. Grayson made this statement in his regular daily bulletin. The bulletin said: "The president shows signs of continued improvement but his condition is such that it necessitates his remaining in bed for an extended period."

This was signed by Drs. Grayson, Dercum, Ruffin and Rear Admiral Stitt of the Naval Medical School.

The announcement was delayed until 12:45 P. M., more than two hours later than usual on account of an extended conference of the president's physicians. Neither Dr. Grayson nor Dr. Dercum saw newspapermen after the conference and no additional information was forthcoming.

Today's statement came as a surprise inasmuch as impressions were that Wilson was so improved that he might be able to leave his bedroom soon, also take a slight part in the affairs of the state. Chairman Lane of the industrial conference recently stated he was informed Wilson would be able to take part shortly before the session ended. For the first time since the president's illness four doctors today fixed their signatures to the official bulletin. It was authorized today that the president was so much better that daily gulletin would be discontinued.

All Stunts from Loop the Loops to Tail Spins and Nose Dive Exemplified

The Dispatch reporter always did have a hankering to see how it felt to go up in the air. Metaphorically speaking, he has often been up.

But to make the trip with such an experienced pilot as Lieut. Walter Bullock of the Ashley Aeroplane Corporation of Minneapolis is one sure of thrills galore, especially when your kind friends on earth give the pilot the last injunction to "Give Hoffbauer all you've got."

After a motor drive to the Rosko flying field just to the east of the end of the 13th street cement road, the party disembarked. Lieut. Bullock was sitting in the machine spinning her up. G. A. Knowles, secretary of the company, was keeping a kindly eye on the proceedings. Other employees stood about the field.

As Oct. 10 was no red-hot day by any means, the thermometer sticking around 37 with a stiff breeze, the reporter had evolved a flying costume by slipping on a pair of "coveralls" over his regular suit and then adding an overcoat and woolen mitts. "Already," said the "Lieut."

A High Step
The reporter made one high step to the framework, so high that he knew how a girl felt when she tried to make a car step in a tight skirt. There was a little strip of metal, corrugated stuff, where you had to plant your foot so as not to stick your heel through the fabric of the wings.

You then depress your head on your breast, and slowly pull yourself over the bulwarks of the front seat and avoid hitting the wing right above. Your seat is directly behind the engine. At the head of the cockpit is a cunning little windshield of yellow. Above are various instruments, one is a gauge of gasoline carried. On the sides of your seat walls are various kinds of tiller ropes. To the right was a knob of an affair which the reporter accidentally touched and found it was the throttle which let out a burst of speed like the car accelerator touched by a novice. On the floor in front was a sort of a sled steering device and in the center a pole resembling the "G" pole of an Alaskan sled.

The plane, a Curtis JN-4, was of the type used in war for instruction purposes, the passenger's seat being a replica of the pilot's, thus enabling a beginner to learn more easily.

A belt much like the kind janitors use when hanging from a tenth story window ledge to wash windows was to be snapped around the waist of the passenger. But the reporter had on too much clothes. While trying to adjust himself, Lieut. Bullock playfully gave his engine a few spins and the newspaper man had visions of going aloft without a belt. The overcoat was discarded and the belt snapped on.

"They're Off!"
"They're off," yelled the crowd. "It's all off," thought the reporter. Lieut. Bullock gave "her" more gas and the plane romped over the field, smoothly and much easier than any automobile would make it. The exact period when she lifted from the ground could only be gained by looking over the sides.

First Sensation
Many people have an idea that the first sensation in the flying game is a thought of distance, of how many miles do we fall before we hit the ground, or a repetition of the sensation affecting some people when they stare down from the roof of a high building and have a feeling a leaping overboard into space. Nothing like that affects a person. You are cuddled up in a comfort—

The Breakers at Monterey.
The waves that lap so quietly about the jetties of Monterey grow louder and larger in the distance. You can see the breakers leaping high and white at day; at night, the outline of the shore is traced in transparent silver by the moonlight and the flying foam. . . . The waves come in slowly, vast and green, curve their translucent necks and burst with a surprising uproar that runs, waxing and waning, up and down the long keyboard of the beach. The foam of these great ruins mounts in an instant to the ridge of the sand dunes, swiftly flees back again, and is met and buried by the next breaker. On no other coast that I know shall you enjoy in calm, sunny weather, such a spectacle of ocean's greatness, such beauty of changing color or such degrees of thunder in the sound. The very air is more than usually salt by this Homeric deep.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

(By United Press)
Washington, Oct. 11—For the first time in fifty years congress today was clear of prohibition legislation. Debates involving liquor are done with in legislative halls.
Questions on prohibition have been before congress continually since before the civil war, although it was only in the past decade it began to receive serious consideration.

Churches' Weather-vanes.
Weather-vanes seem to date from early times. According to Duncage, the cock was originally devised as an emblem of clerical vigilance. The large tail of the cock was adapted to turn with the wind. Many churches have for a vane the emblem of the saints to whom they are dedicated. St. Peter's Cathedral, London, is surmounted with a key, St. Peter having the keys of heaven and hell. St. Laurence has for a vane a gridiron, and St. Laurence at Norwich has the gridiron with the holy martyr extended upon the bars.
A gilt ship in full sail is the vane upon St. Mildred's Church in the Poultry.
St. Michael's, Queenhithe, has a ship, the hull of which will hold a bushel of grain, referring to the former traffic in corn at the hithe.—London Chronicle.

a warm night the guests would come without hats or coats. It looked like bed for Billy, but as a last resort he said, "Oh, but, mother, surely they will wear their summer furs."

The Crow Family.
The crow family is placed by ornithologists at the head of the bird world as being more highly organized than any other. Linnaeus gave the post of honor to the eagles, because of their kingly quality of rapacity, but two great authorities, Professor Parker and Professor Newton, agreed in assigning the highest place to the cor-vidae.

Much Food for Thought in Analysis of the Lives of One Hundred

The American Bankers' association has compiled and published the actual life experience of 100 men. It is an capacity.

At age 35: 5 have died; 10 are wealthy; 10 are in good circumstances; 40 have moderate means; 35 have saved nothing.
At age 45: 16 have died; 3 are wealthy; 65 are self supporting, but without resources; 16 are no longer self-supporting.
At age 55: 20 have died; 1 very
wealthy; 3 are in good circumstances; 46 are self-supporting, but without means; 30 are dependent on children, relatives or charity for support.
At age 65: 36 have died; 1 very wealthy; 3 are wealthy; 6 self-supporting by labor; 54 are dependent on

ODD FELLOWS MAY ERECT NEW HOME

Plans Include a Three-story Building With Offices, Business Quarters, Lodge Rooms

THE PROJECT IS CONSIDERED
Basement and First Floor Sought by Two Brainerd Firms—Soon to be Determined

The Odd Fellows are considering the enlarging of the building which they own, or the erection of a new building, in order to care for their rapidly growing lodge.

One plan is to extend the present building to the end of the lot, about 25 feet, but this has been objected to by some of the members, because of the width of the hall. The trustees are considering an offer for the purchase of the present building, which will make it necessary to build. If the building is sold, in all probability, a three story building will be erected, a basement and the first floor to be used for business purposes, the second floor for offices and the third for lodge rooms and club rooms.

Among those who have manifested an interest in leasing the basement and first floor, are the Woodhead Motor Co. and the Brainerd Model Laundry Co. Several organizations have signified their willingness to rent the hall on the nights not occupied by the Odd Fellows.

A certain business man is of the opinion that he has an exceedingly bright office boy, and nothing pleases him better than to tell how he acquired the youngster's services. A notice had been posted in the office window, which read as follows: "Boy wanted about fourteen years." A lad of that age, with little that was prepossessing in his appearance, came into the office and stated that he had read the notice. "So you think you would like to have the position?" asked the merchant patronizingly, as he gazed at the lad over the rim of his spectacles. "Yes, sir," was the reply. "I want the job, but I can't promise to keep it for the full fourteen years."

GOVERNMENT ALLOWS POINTS

Miss Harriet Smith, Y. W. C. A. Student Secretary in China, Relates Amazing Story of How 20,000 Students Organized Themselves.

By BERNICE GRISWOLD.

Miss Harriet Smith, for ten years a student secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association in Shanghai, China, relates the amazing story of how 20,000 Chinese students organized themselves to oust the militarists from Government offices in Peking and how they succeeded in becoming the leaders of China.

Fearing that China was not to be protected from the aggression of other nations by the Peace Treaty, as she had expected to be, some 20,000 students, all of them between the ages of twelve and twenty-one years and including 8,000 girls, organized themselves into the Chinese Students' Patriotic Society immediately after the publication of the first draft of the Peace Treaty to fight for Chinese rights.

Their first move was to strike from school or, rather, from lectures, as they remained in their respective schools and spent so many hours daily in private study. They then organized into bands for getting out propaganda literature and for public speaking in the country and small towns and in the ten shops in poorer districts of the cities in order that they might reach the vast numbers of people who could not read.

Immediately upon organizing, the students published their demands, four in number: (1) that the militarists, who as a party were pro-Japanese and practically controlled the Government at Peking, be put out of office; (2) that Shantung be returned to China; (3) that the twenty-one demands made by Japan in 1915 be cancelled; (4) that there be freedom of speech and of the press. They also insisted that the Chinese constitution be finished.

An immense amount of literature was put out, much of it in the new phonetic script which is being launched in China, so that the uneducated classes might learn what was happening. Students lectured everywhere on the demands, stirring the people to patriotism. When many of them were arrested while parading in the streets of Peking they formed an Association of Imprisoned Students within the prison and refused to be released, picketing the stockade themselves when Government guards were taken away until the Government submitted a proper apology for having imprisoned them in the beginning.

When it became evident that economic pressure was all that would be effective both the bankers' and merchants' guilds were called upon to back the students. "In less than two hours," Miss Smith said, "the shutters were up at every shop in that great city of Shanghai, where telephones are few and communication difficult. Every shop, whether large or small, was closed. The laboring people, feeling as patriotic as the bankers, merchants and students, also joined the general strike. For a week everything was closed—shops, money exchanges, fish markets, shipping, everything. The students struggled to keep public utilities running. The telephone service was stopped for a short time, but the students soon had it running again. They held meetings day and night, trying to keep the railroad employees at their posts and explaining that it was patriotism for them and for water works and electric light employees to continue to work. At the end of that week the students had won the first point and the militarists were out of power."

When suffrage in any form finally comes to China Miss Smith feels that it will be granted to both men and women because of the way women are helping to build things up now. Women students took an active part in all of this bloodless revolution. They had their places on all of the councils. Their part of the work was to translate much of the literature into phonetic script and when a boycott was declared on Japanese goods to begin production of goods in China.

"All of the students threw away their straw hats—purely Japanese products—at the beginning of their movement, and the women students set about making white duck hats, which were called patriotic hats and immediately became very popular. Then they began devoting themselves to the making of parasols and of talcum powder. Some of them paraded, but none was arrested."

"China is the last country in the world to fear class feeling and antipathy, which seems to be gripping the rest of the world," Miss Smith says. "In China there is a wonderful social solidarity. People get together, not so much by localities, but by trades and professions. Every one belongs to a guild, and these guilds are wonderfully organized, as the Chinese have a genius for organization. Despite poor lines of communication, lack of railroads and telephones, these guilds hold closely together. Yet their organization has nothing to do with caste."

"With a leadership as highly organized as that of the students' great amount can be done. Leading men of China interpret the student movement as very significant—the forming of a new national party. It is the duty of all Christian organizations in China to give these students, who are now the leaders of the Government, every possible bit of aid and inspiration, as they need more than human help to bring China out of her difficulties successfully. The Y. W. C. A. is doing what it can to help the women students. All of these students have given up their vacations and are working hard throughout the summer."

Miss Smith has seen China change, within ten years, from one of the oldest and most rigid monarchies of the world into a republic. She saw the first republican flags go up and feels that China has accomplished a great deal, fighting all the time as she has, against the great odds of Japanese and European aggression in addition to the old monarchistic party. Given time, China will become one of the great republics of the world, she says.

Miss Smith lives in Richmond, Va., and is home on a year's furlough. She expects to return to China in the spring.

ALL BRAINERD SAW AIR TRICKS

Loop the Loop, Tail Spin, Nose Dive, Immelman Turn, Etc., Executed by Flyer

Lieut. Walter Bullock of the Ashley Aeroplane Corporation of Minneapolis at the noon hour Friday gave Brainerd a free exhibition of flying stunts equalling the best ever seen at the state fair. The lieutenant did everything except walk out on his plane.

His first performance was looping the loop. Then came a tail spin, a nose dive and an Immelman turn, followed by other evolutions. Lieut. Bullock skimmed along four stories' height from the ground. Many of his maneuvers were executed at comparatively low altitude. Shopmen, school children, all Brainerd had its eyes pinned to the skies as the exhibition was given.

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon passengers were carried. The first was the Dispatch reporter, John A. Hoffbauer, the next up were E. O. Allen, B. E. Dunham, John F. Woodhead and others.

The United States steamship Baltimore sailed from New York for Sweden on Aug. 23, 1890, carrying the remains of Capt. John Ericsson, the great inventor, to their last resting place in his native land. Capt. Ericsson died March 8, 1889, exactly twenty-seven years from the time the Merrimack had steamed from her berth at Norfolk and headed for the federal fleet at Hampton Roads. Capt. Ericsson's greatest service to the United States was the invention and construction of the ship Monitor, which saved the navy of the United States by stopping the terrible iron-clad Merrimack, which had frightened the entire north. Technically the battle between the two vessels was a draw, although it was one of the most momentous naval conflicts in all history.

WORLD WAR VETERANS

Bonus Application Blanks and Other Necessary Forms Distributed at the Meeting

On Thursday evening the World War Veterans handed out these instructions to ex-soldiers on how to secure the bonus:

Bonus

The act provides Fifteen Dollars ($15.00) for each and every month and fraction thereof subsequently to April 6, 1917 and prior to the date peace shall be agreed upon between the United States and the German Government. Provided also, that the amount received by any soldier shall not be less than Fifty Dollars ($50.00).

Application Blanks

Application blanks and blank forms of discharge paper or release may be obtained from the Clerk of the District Court where the applicant resides and from the Bonus Department, Adjutant General's Office, Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota, either in person or by writing. They will also be available through the various posts of the American Legion and other patriotic organizations and societies, who have arranged to assist in this respect. Former members of the draft boards have also tendered their services to assist the ex-service men in properly filling out their applications and other necessary documents, as each individual case may require. If there is any question relative to the legal residence of the applicant at time of entry in the service, steps should be taken at once to establish correct address and to furnishing of records of proof of such legal residence, before the application is sent to this office for payment. Otherwise unnecessary delay might result.

How to Make Application

In applying for application blanks for bonus, applicants will state the branch of service from which he—she—was discharged or released from active duty, as the forms of separation from military or naval service differ. Therefore this information is important and absolutely necessary in order that the proper blanks for the making of duplicates release papers may be furnished by this office.

Officers

No special form will be furnished for ex-officers, as they usually were discharged from active service by an order from the war or navy department. It will, however, be necessary that all officers furnish a copy of the order commissioning them, showing date of commission and call to active duty, together with copy of their discharge order. This is necessary in order to establish period of service for which they will be entitled to the said bonus.

Entered Service Outside of State

In cases where the soldier entered the service at a point outside of the borders of the State of Minnesota, an affidavit by the applicant, together with a supporting affidavit by some reputable citizen of the community in which he, the applicant, claimed residence, should be attached to the application prior to the acknowledgment of same by the notary or other official empowered to administer oaths.

Tuition

Where the applicant has requested tuition under Chapter 328, Session Laws 1919, the amount for will be shown by the applicant in the space allotted for this information on the bonus application blank, which amount should correspond with the records of this office. The amount so applied for or received will be deducted from that amount the applicant would otherwise have been entitled to and the difference will be allowed in the cash bonus. If the tuition received exceeded the monthly bonus which the soldier would originally have been entitled to, then no cash bonus will be allowed. The soldier should not make application for cash bonus if he has already received tuition bonus, aggregating more than bonus otherwise entitled to. Neither should he make application for tuition if cash bonus already received exceeded the $200 otherwise allowed for tuition.

Action on Application

Applications when received at the Bonus Department will be given a serial number and claims will be paid in their order as funds are available. The applicant should therefore exercise care in filling out all blanks and forms correctly as returning of those not properly executed will, of course, necessitate a higher serial and thus greatly delay payments.

National Guardsmen

Former members of the Minnesota National Guard will show actual date mustered into federal service during the war with Germany and proof of such muster. No bonus will be allowed for any period of guard service prior to said entry into federal service.

Widow

The widow of any soldier, as defined in this act, the soldier having died prior to September 22, 1918, (passage of this act), if she, the widow, is still single, will receive the bonus which such deceased soldier would have received had he lived. Application should be made direct by mail or in person to the Bonus Department, Adjutant General's Office, Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota.

By direction of

BRIG. GEN. W. F. RHINOW
Chairman of the Soldier's Bonus Board.

(The word "Soldier" is interpreted to include all soldiers, sailors and marines).

COUNTY AGENTS IN CONVENTION

Members of Northeast District Held a Conference at Duluth, Favor State Farm Bureau

AND NATIONAL FARM BUREAU

Closer and More Extensive Union of Farm Interests, Settling Marketing Problem

The county agents of the northeast district held a conference in the Liberal Arts building at Duluth the sixth and seventh of October. Plans were made for the Federation of County Farm Bureaus to be organized into a State Farm Bureau which in turn are to be organized into a National Farm Bureau.

The benefits to be received from this organization are:

Closer and more extensive union of farm interests.

National and state wide action for farming problems and farming interests.

The carrying out of problems in marketing.

Development and farm management on a scale which a county alone cannot attempt, for example the formation of a central potato exchange for Minnesota similar to that organized in Michigan. Extensive use of TNT for land clearing, and the use of extensive Farm Bureau service wherever farming interests are involved.

Iowa, which has a state federation of Farm Bureaus, sent a petition to Washington signed by 183,000 farmers asking for a repeal of the daylight saving bill. It was largely through Iowa's influence with this petition that this bill was repealed.

Other things that were taken up are:

Plans for the membership drive in each county to increase the interest and membership in Farm Bureau work.

Methods of cooperating with local newspapers and reporting to local newspapers. Mr. Kirkwood, editor of the University Extension Service, outlined plans by which county agents could secure the best cooperation of local newspapers.

Mr. Whitcomb of the U. S. Bureau of Markets spoke on the supply of hay in the United States this year. He states that there is an 18,000,000 surplus of hay this year. He is working on a system by which there will be a uniform grade and inspection of hay installed somewhat along the lines with which grains are graded and inspected.

Exhibiting at the Moorhead and Duluth potato shows was taken up and most of the northeast counties are planning to send exhibits to both places. Liberal prizes are offered at both places and farmers having good potatoes are urged to enter these products.

able seat, the engine is working fine, the air is clear, no dust ahead and the way is clear. Once in a while there is a bump in the air and the airplane easily takes it without a jar. You are riding smoother than you have ever done before in your life, whether on a Pullman, automobile, motor boat, merry-go-round, or any other conveyance you can think of.

You round an imaginary corner and the wings tilt ever so little and you fly around on an angle like the banked corner of a race track.

"Acres of Children"

Calmly the reporter looked overboard and saw "acres of children," pigmy automobiles, splashes of fields, woods that looked like lawn patches, forty acre farms that resembled checker board squares in size, roads that led from the city like narrow ribbons. The 13th street roadway of cement was shaded white, the others light brown. Railways of the Northern Pacific westward and M. & I. northward were clearly discerned by their neat roadbeds.

The city water tower which now stands over 145 feet high with its construction platform appeared as big as your little finger.

Lieut. Bullock, circled to the east, he crossed the river to the west, he skimmed to the south until the church steeple at St. Mathias was visible, he skipped northward until the dam was discernible.

Things Happen.

Suddenly the airplane halted its straight flight and made three flips. Later fellows on the ground told the reporter it was a "loop the loop." At no time was there a sensation of falling out of the airplane. The reporter seemed to be glued to his seat good and tight and although he had one hand at the top near the windshield and the other on the belt clasp, there was no strain at either point.

Immelman Turn.

Then came another stunt, an "Immelman turn." The reporter had no idea how it was done, but tiller ropes and the "G" pole were shifting around. He sat tight and stayed with Bullock.

The engine now gave out a roar, louder than usual, and the plane went straight up.

Tail Spin.

With a sudden shift, Lieut. Bullock executed a tail spin. The reporter had a sensation of being pulled through the small end of a funnel. All of Brainerd was shooting around in a circle. There was no feeling of nausea at any time.

Long Spirals.

In long spirals Lieut. Bullock floated to the ground. There was no dizzy feeling.

Flew Upside Down.

Again the aeroplane swept into the higher etheral realms. There was a sudden turn and wonder of wonders!

Things reversed themselves and for a brief period Lieut. Bullock and the reporter flew upside down. Below appeared to be a bank of blue and above was the city of Brainerd.

Nose Dive.

When about two miles high, the engine seemed to slow down. There was a sudden drop, nose first, and the air hit the reporter a crack on both ears like some one handing you a box on the ears. There was a sensation of pulling you down.

It was a nose dive and the machine was headed for Brainerd. At that there was no sensation of fear. The reporter had no wild idea of jumping overboard and beating it for himself as things were going down as fast as they could.

There was no such things as a review of one's past life fitting before one's eyes. The propeller blades kicked out around kind of lazy like and the tiller ropes moved easily.

The reporter began to figure on alighting on a haystack or else hanging up in a tree. He knew he was in for the worst of it because he had the front seat and Bullock would pile on top, for he sat behind.

When about five blocks from Brainerd, the propeller picked up a tiny bit and the plane skimmed to a level position and the sensation of having a fellow's stomach pulled out diminished.

Circling Around

Bullock circled around the flying field and then the engine gave a few coughs and the machine skimmed on the ground and came at rest. The trip was over.

The Poetry of It.

Some people have an idea that a propulsion into the ether above stimulates one's capacity for composing blank verse, in other words jogs the creative faculties of the mind. That may be the case when Bullock runs the machine on an even keel, but believe me there is no thought of poetry, the after life, family, friends or foes when he is doing the tail spin, loop the loop or nose dive. All you're wishing is that Bullock would

Flying to be General

The day of general flying is coming soon. Even now the Ashley Aeroplane Corporation is handling a single-seater with small wing spread which can alight in a country road. It has a four cylinder engine and uses gas sparingly. Hundreds of applications are booked for that type of machine.

New Order Soon Here.

Remember the country daily item: "Hank Johnson left for Minneapolis on a flying trip attending to business affairs."

Hank will simply hop in his single-seater, step on the juice and wing his way to the Mill City.

Whither We Are Flying.

The point in space toward which the sun with its planets is voyaging at the rate of a million miles a day now lies directly overhead early in the evening. The exact location of this point has not been finally determined, but it lies somewhere in the neighborhood of the brilliant star Vega. Do you feel that you are shooting upward, head first, about 25 times as fast as a cannonball?

Character and Work.
Raphael's works are free from personal accessories; it is only by a peculiar glamour over everything by his hand that we are led to exclaim: "Raphael painted this!" We never enjoy a work of Michelangelo with the same immunity. A low voice seems to whisper out of each one of them: "I am the work of Michelangelo," and only through his character can the way be found to any correct interpretation. This breathes also from Dante's verse—Herman Grimm.

TURNED TO COMMERCIAL USE

Historic Mansion in Mexico City Remodeled and Made Into Typical American Drug Store.

The conversion of the "House of Tiles" in the City of Mexico into a typical American drug store marks the passing of one of the most palatial and unique structures ever erected in that city of interesting buildings. Many persons in the United States remember the house as the "Jockey club," the most exclusive and aristocratic place of its kind in the republic, but for the past few years it has stood on a prominent downtown corner, a bleak, decrepit structure, whose shiny and gaudy exterior of tile gave evidence of its former glory. Soon it will open for business as a drug store.

The date when the building's foundations were laid is lost in obscurity, but it is thought that it was started about 1596. Later it came into the possession of Don Louis de Rivero, a man of varied career, who was responsible for its exterior coat of tiles. These latter are of blue, yellow and white, Moorish in design, and were made by artisans brought from Talavera, Spain, by the Dominican friars in the sixteenth century. They were modeled in a special ceramic factory at Puebla, about 75 miles distant, and the completion of this decoration was the occasion for public celebration.

The family of Don Luis de Rivero, who later became the count of Orizaba, remained in possession of the house until the time of the ill-fated Emperor Maximilian. Its last occupant was a sister of the then count of Orizaba, upon whom the emperor conferred the title of marquesa de Ciria.

Later the structure was taken over by the Jockey club and converted into a sumptuous club house. Stories of fabulous sums won and lost at its gaming tables persist to this day. Stirring revolutionary times caused its abandonment, and for several years the building was vacant until the present lessees secured it for a period of twenty years.

Indicative perhaps of an intention by the government to restore it later is the fact that before renovation started photographs were taken of all interesting portions of the building, including the huge carved door.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment.—Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a

Taking the Chase Out Of Purchase

Advertising benefits the man who buys as well as the man who sells. It is part of the Golden Rule of Business and it works both ways.

Don't miss the advertisements in this newspaper. Many of them are interesting just because of their news and educational value alone.

But more than that:—Advertisements take the chase out of purchase and make every penny do its full duty.

This last statement is one particularly to be remembered when common-sense economy is not only a national duty, but an individual necessity.

DON'T MISS THE ADVERTISEMENTS.
